Cycle's of Faith

30th Sunday in Ordinary Time

Self-esteem and self-promotion are generally credited as values. Psychologists and social workers often attribute difficulties in social adjustment, problems with bullying, addiction to drugs or alcohol, increased rates of teenage pregnancy and domestic abuse to low self-esteem. In the jobless culture of these difficult economic times low self-esteem can eat away at one's psychological health. As a counteractive measure, many counselors encourage the unemployed to engage in self-promotion, advertising their desirable qualities to potential employers in the same way a product might be marketed to consumers.

The Pharisee in this week's Gospel certainly has no problem with self-promotion. He is well-qualified for a position on Madison Avenue, though he would probably be hawking himself more than the products he would be trying to market. Some might see the self-deprecating tax collector as one of the down-and-out folks who is never going to make it, because he just doesn't have the verve and initiative to get out there and sell himself. An out-placement counselor might advise him to project his good points- dedicated worker, good with numbers, financially savvy, willing to take on a hard job, etc.

All of those good points may indeed be a part of the tax collector's profile. But there are other aspects of his life as well that need some work, and he is ready to acknowledge that. This is what humility really is- being honest about oneself. Self-esteem and self-promotion still have their value in a humble person. Indeed, a truly humble person needs good self-esteem to be able to examine himself or herself critically to come to an honest appraisal of virtues and shortcomings. Real humility is not about making ourselves worthless, but about developing an assessment of our true worth and the improvements we still need to make with God's help. ©2010 Liturgical Publications Inc

"But the tax collector stood off at a distance...and prayed, 'O God, be merciful to me a sinner.' I tell you, the latter went home justified, not the former; for whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and the one who humbles himself will be exalted."

- Lk 18:13a, 13c-14

Please search your heart, this is a wonderful way to live your faith and serve your community. If you can help please call Jenny Kalthoff 845-2646, Carol Wenning 845-4188, or Lori Ehlert 845-6612.

Navigating Change: Exploring the New Translation of the Roman Missal in November 2011

"The Lord be with you. And with your spirit." Perhaps you've heard that the English texts of the Mass are changing. NEXT YEAR, on the First Sunday of Advent, 2011, some of the texts we pray at Mass will change. Anita Fischer, director of the Office of Worship for the Diocese of Saint Cloud, will present the "who, what, when, where, and why" of the upcoming new translation of the Mass. You will also have an opportunity to look at the changes that have been made to the people's responses and prayers, such as the Gloria, Creed, and Holy, Holy. This presentation will be given in several areas of the diocese and it is free and open to the public.
