Cycle's of Faith

27th Sunday in Ordinary Time

We just celebrated the feast of the Guardian Angels on Saturday. I suspect most of us didn't even avert to it, since we were busy about other things. Saturday is often the day for yard work, children's sports, household projects, shopping, or other things that we don't have time for during the week. Thinking about guardian angels was likely not one of the top priorities on our agenda. Yet the feast comes and goes each year on October 2 in honor of those spiritual beings who watch over and protect in realms beyond our physical apprehension. Angels worship and serve God, and we have almost no awareness in our daily lives of their presence.

The reality of angelic presence is not what is so often portrayed in cartoons as little beings sitting on one's shoulder. Rather, it is the deep understanding of the abiding presence of God: that God cares for each one of us individually and that God's providence protects us. Like the servants in today's Gospel, that go about their business day by day, so do the angels who serve at God's throne. Unknown and unheralded, they do the bidding of the Almighty.

In the business world, an angel investor is one who provides the capital for a start-up, giving seed money to get an idea up and running in the real world. There is risk in that, and not every investment realizes a profit. As servants of God on this earth, we are often asked to be angel investors as well, not by turning over money to some entrepreneur in hopes of gaining a profit, but through reaching out to those in need and helping them with our talent and treasure. Much like guardian angels, our good and helpful actions toward others-our care and protection of the least ones-is truly service offered to God. And like the angels, we do it quietly, not seeking recognition, but being faithful servants.

Letter from Bishop Kinney

As you know, the cultural changes around the definition of marriage are accelerating in our country and around the world. The Church's position is consistent with the virtually unanimous testimony of history across all cultures and places: that marriage, by definition, is a stable, life-long commitment of one man and one woman. While marriage is intensely personal, it is also always a social good that goes beyond the relationship of the spouses and builds the future through openness to the gift of children born as the fruit of the couple's love.

Recently, you received at your home a letter from Bishop Kinney and an 18-minute DVD on the Catholic Church's response to the question of "same-sex marriage." Through the generosity of an anonymous donor in the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis, this DVD is being sent to every Catholic household in the State of Minnesota.

These materials are meant to provide education, background, and perspective on this sensitive issue. Regardless of your current personal views on this topic, I encourage you to watch this DVD with an open mind and heart, and share it with your children as you judge appropriate for their ages.
