Cycle's of Faith

6th Sunday of Easter

Every once in a while a dispute about the display of the Ten Commandments on public property makes the news. A judge might make a decision or an elected official might push the issue, and some minister may stand up to denounce what he sees as the dissolution of the moral fiber of society. These public displays usually involve the text of the commandments from the Book of Exodus, also known as the Protestant version. The Catholic version, which comes from the list in the book of Deuteronomy, rarely gets acknowledged in such disputes.

Neither the commandments in Exodus, nor the ones in Deuteronomy, are the commandments that Jesus is concerned about in today's Gospel. While those minimal expectations are to be followed, Jesus has a much greater precept that he wants his followers to observe. The command that Jesus gives is the law of reciprocal love. He expects his followers to love him and in return he and the Father will love them. And Jesus commands his followers to love one another in the same way that he loves them.

This command of love raises the bar on the level of expectations. For the Christian, it is no longer a minimal level of moral behavior that fulfills the covenant. Instead, it is a complete renewal of life that is required, a renewal which begins with an encounter with the Father through Jesus and comes full circle in the love for one another. The minimum requirements of the law are not enough. Instead, love becomes the singular command that must be fulfilled: love of God, and love of one another. Disputes about the Ten Commandments have gone on for years, and will likely continue for years to come. Likewise, there are always debates about the concrete ways of fulfilling Christ's command to love. But his words to his followers are very clear: "If you love me, you will keep my commandments" (Jn 14:15). ©2011 Liturgical Publications Inc

"On that day you will realize that I am in my Father and you are in me and I in you. Whoever has my commandments and observes them is the one who loves me. And whoever loves me will be loved by my Father, and I will love him and reveal myself to him. - Jn 14:20-21"

Please call Edna at 845-2343 to volunteer.

THANK YOU to Larry & Janice Mareck and Edna & Marvin Goebel for volunteering to chair the bazaar again this year. HOWEVER, they are still looking for co-chairs to help this year and chair next year. This would be a very good time to step forward and see what this is all about!

Sisters Anne Malerich & Marian Kemper

SEWING and SOWING

Sister Anne is still browsing through patterns and selecting fabric, too, such as cotton to put patches where the seams are wearing through. Her "SINGER" has not been silenced. Her prayerful sewing, for Albany, allows her to harvest many joyful memories. She would love to return but, her "aorta condition" needs a slower pace.

I'LL GIVE a NICE SMILE

In June, Sister Marian is coming to live with me. Sister has served in many careers. Most of her pastoral work has been in the New Ulm Diocese. Love is the fabric she weaves with tender care. Every person she meets is precious in God's sight. When I asked her what I should say about her she replied "Tell them I'll give them a nice smile." I'm sure you will also find Sister Marian to be a blessing.

Sincerely, Sister Alice
